INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS. We intended be-A kalakti – to bave made some remarks on that pution of the Governor's address which rear_ to the subject of internal improvements. We find that the communication in our colmains to-day from our friend P. F. supercedes the never ty of any lengthened comments from ne. We commend his senerks to our readers.

We cannot yield an assent to the propriety of the doubt expressed by his Excellency, as to the expediency of commencing the work at this Miss. It seems to us that now or all others is the time. Capital is unemployed. Its owners ue affaid to invest or use it. Individual credit is alm ! annillilated! The State can now go into "; m-rket as a borrower, without meeting any compatitors there, and obtain money at a low-rate inneh lower than in seasons of prosperous business when individual enterprise commands and absorbs capital. Labor, too, can be produced at much lower wages, than in busigina "Yfffus" Taking ipio view then the cheapness of both labor and capital, works of improvement can be constructed at this-moment former ! thid less than they could three years

Time in, too, another strong reason why the Blate should now engage in each undertakings a moral consideration. The people are suf-Acting under a desponding spirit as to the future. This unnerves them, and destroys their energies. A show of confidence in the future on the part of our State anthorities, would do much to dispel the gloom, and restore equanimity to the citizens. Besides, by the pressure of the Ni. 3, theorards of laborers are thrown out of temployment, and are absolutely suffering for the necessaries of life: We regard it to be the duty of the State, to do what it can to re-Heve this suffering not as a matter of charity, but as a matter of duty. These men have been reduced to a state of destitution without any fault of their own. And holding as we do, 16 Covernment was instituted for the benefit of the people, and not simply to take care of it-If we hold it to be one of its most sucred duties to relieve the general distress by all constitutional means. And certainly no method 4--ld be devised to afford more effectual, or more profitable relief, than that of employing *han on as.k. of internal improvement

We believe, that both an enlightened econo-'Ay and a proper regard for the suffering condition of the laburing classes, call for immedithe commencement of the work.

Augusta, Feb. 8, 1708. The mail bill law is before Senate. Mr. Greene has introduced a substitute by way of provisions who for everything the present law for two years instead of repealing, the other for prohibiting banks from making dividends while they do not pay specie. Some of the Bentonian; Senators, professing that they could not understand the thing by hearing it read, the Senate ordered 2000 copies to be printed. If it was the preamble they could not understand, I do not wonder at it; though I think 2600 copies. i. e. eighty copies apiece, rather a large allowance to be worn up in studying out so small a matter. I think it would have been better, natead of spending so much of the people's money in printing, to have procured some skilful interpreter to translate it into English; and then the 80 copies apiece would not have been nceded. I suppose that the Senate intend to waste a good allowance of time and money in insisting upon this matter of suspension, instead of a repeal, as the bill passed the House. A matter not worth an hour's debute, as they they suspend, or repeat, this year, another Lo gislature will do as they please about it.

The Governor, I think, is growing in paperlarity daily. I have heard his manners much execution of them. commended. He puts on no airs of repulsive stateliness. He assumes no peculiar scat at the table. He does not fear to mix with the crowd. In short, his manners possess the greatness of republican simplicity. I use the term. greatness of simplicity with due deliberation. It only men of intellect who can fill a high station with dignity, without putting on that cloak of reserve which, as was long ago observed by Rochefoucault; is assumed by men of little minds to conceal the barrenness of their intellect .-Small men most keep the multitude at a diatance lest they should be examined too closely. Greatmen do not fear such examination. hope it will not be thought that I am instituting any comparison in this respect, between the present Governor and his predecessor. Far from me be such disrespectful allusions. There are some suggestions in the Governor's Speech which I should be glad to see taken up by the Legislature in the entarged and liberal spirit that is exhibited in other States I allude to his suggestions upon internal improvements. There are few States whose natural advantages are greater than ours; but none, where less is done by the State to improve them. See how alive all the other States are upon this subject. I need not mention New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, whose enterprise is familial to every one. But look at the new States. See Illinois and Indiana vaising millions for rallroads and canals. Even the sluggish States have aroused themselves, and are exhibiting a spirit that puts New England to the blush .-South Carolina is taking measures to construct a-rail road from the Atlantic to Cincinnati Georgia is planning rail-roads and canals to connect the Atlantic with the Gulf of Mexico. A bill is before the Virginia Legislature for raising a fore of five millions for internal improvements in that State. But what is Maine doing? Nothing! nothing whatever! I think that the present would be a peculiarly appropriate season to enter upon some extensive plan, because, from the constitution of the Senate and House, any plan that should be adopted, must have the sanction of both political parties. It would be well too to be taking measures now to prosure a loan, or rather to have some authority empowered to make one when an opportunity should offer If we wait till business has fairly revived, and money has come into demand and good investments are abandant it will be more difficult to procure it. But what shall we do with the money? I would take up and enlarge upon town of this number, we do not doubt, that the suggestions of the Governor about improv-The lift fully supply the loss of the "fost," of ing our rivers. On ners of lander would well afford to pay a toll, we will say of from ten to fifty cents per M according to the distance. We will suppose it to average thirty cents. - H one handred, millions of timber should come down wearly, the smount of toll would be $30,000. The interest of the $200,000 at five per cent would be but $10,000. The tolls then would pay the interest three times over. Then the value of distant timber lands the dogs from which could be run down in one season, instead of taking two se now, would be increased not less than one dullar per sore. Thus the lands of the State would be increased in value more than enough to pay the principal. And the debt might eventually be paid off by receiving for that purpose so much from the sales of timber that it be referred to the next tiegislature. lands, as the amount of their increased valu-I do not kno- that $000,000 would be needed merely to improve the navigation for logs, But sould it not be well, at the same time to Add we have a peculiar advantage, that by means, of our lumboring business, our settlers in the most remote regions would find a ready amendment consisting of a a presunctional two market and high prices at their own-doors, for every article they could raise. Where at the West can a settler make so much profit from his land, us in a lumbering (region? Those who know the prices paid by lumberers for provisions and produce of every kind, can appreciate the advantages of our own wild lands for farmers. Then a settler can pay for land enough for a farin here, with what he would spend in removing to the West. Let us then open our territory for settlement, and keep our jucrease of population at home, to add to the strength and resources of our own State, instead of sending them one or two thousand miles, to reward by their enterprise the more liberal policy of other Governments.

I intended but that this letter has grown too long to have said something about our Board of Internal Improvements. . It is evident that we must have a more permanent body than the Governor and Council to devise and superintend plans of improvement, if we would effect cannot bind another Legislature and whether any thing of Aferiance. Counsellors elected for one year cannuct possibly have time to acquire the necessary information. Much less can they devise large plans and superintend the Youts, &c. P. F.

> MR EDITOR: The subject of lining our publić streets with shade treees, ( which was remarked upon by the Lecturer before the Lyce. um last week, ) is deserving of further, and more serious consideration, by our citizens, and and from our public authorities. The beauty, half performs his duty, thus evincing that his utility, and healthfulness" that would be thus secured, render it an object doubly worthy the expense, (if indeed, its advantages can well be estimated in this manner.) that would be incurred in its accomplishment. The object of beadtifying and adorning the City in so clegant and tasteful a manner, is itself of abundantly more value, than any exertions or expenditures which its execution could require; and the additional advantages to be derived, in increasing the eligibility of our city as a place of residence, and in affording bur streets an agreeable and coinfortable shelter for the transaction of business, and the heat and dust of our warm weather; the diminution of our bill of morrality, and the promotion permanently of the health of our city, are objects which should far outweigh every consideration which the expense of attaining them, can oppose to them. And when we consider that these benefits, once secured, are not a transient character, but will continue to bless the city as long almost as it shall endure, the erpence dwindles into nothing; it is a consideration which loves all dignity; and we are called upon at once; by every consideration of privale confort and plessure, and of public spirit. to pursue some decisive course of action upon the matter

If the expense, then, forms no obstacle, what difficulty is there in the way? Let the subject | fashionable circles, has caused no inconsiderable be taken into consideration, and if it shall appear that there are no disadvantages in the plan, no objection to the course,, in the object itself, I have waited with the utmost impatience. let some energetic measures in relation to it, be adopted. As Judge Presion remarked, it is a work of time, and the greater therefore is the necessity of an immediate attention to it . Its prosecution would be better undertaken, during the present depreciated state of business, as the operation would occasion less inconven-

What then, can justify further delay? Shall a plan; combining advantages and inducements so great, and so universally, perhaps, acknowl edged, be suffered to lie unexecuted for want of the adequate energy? We hope it will remain so, no longer than public attention shall remain, to be directed to the subject. Will not our authorities, or some citizens of influence, take the matterinto consideration; and as soon, or sooner if you please, as the present laudable design of completing the Market House shall have been carried into effect, put in operation some measures for the speedy execution of this.

THE Commanders in Chief avails himself of the People of Maine, to congratulate the Officers and soldiers of the Militia, upon the awakening spirit and interest which is evinced in the community in relation to this important branch of our national defence. It becomes all who have the honour to hold commissions, to cherish and forward this spirit, by high and honourable conduct, and beciupt and efficient berformance of their respective duties. Selected by the free suffrage of their fellow soldiers, or the representatives of the people, an obligation not to be evaded or disregarded, rests upon each officer to clierish a spirit worthy of a soldier and a citizen, and to shrink from no duly however arduous, imposed by the law, which he has sworn "to sup-The character andlefficiency of the Mil. tia, depend mainly upon the efforts and moral power of the officers in command. The acceptance of office is a voluntary act, and he can never be regarded as a good officer or an honoutable man who, thus assuming, neglects or only object is to hold a commission a length of time sufficient to exempt him from military duty. It is time that such motives and such men should be discountenanced and discharged. The Commander-in-Chiet, in announcing his own deter mination to exercise the authority vested in him n relation to delinquencies in dury, calls upon he several Mojor Generals to enfutee promptly ind without partiality or favour, the powers vested in them by the recent law in relation to Courts Martial, so that the faithful and mertorious shall no longer suffer in reputation, by

He trusts that no call will be made upon them for active service; but surrounded as Maine is by foreign territory and with a dispoted boundary, it's the part of prudence and patriotism to prepare for immediate action. And should the time ever come when physical power is demanded to meet and oppose foreign aggression, he feels assured that the Millitin of Maine will not disgrace the descendants of those heroes who stood by their Country in the dark days of the Revolution.
